POWER AUTHORITY TRUST
Exploring Vulnerability and Caribbean Leadership

GROUP RELATIONS CONFERENCE
19th - 21st October 2023

The Faculty of Social Sciences, The UWI, St. Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago
Dear Prospective Participant,

Caribbean Leadership is now in a more vulnerable position than ever before, and at the same time on fertile ground for innovation and development. Today in 2023, traditional structures and processes are unprotected by the rapid change in technology, instant communication, and the ease of acquiring knowledge and skills.

The fast pace of technology and the challenges of global supply chain, geo political and climate change, invite Caribbean leaders to come together in collaboration, to harness the opportunities emerging, for the modernization and growth of organizations and the region.

The Newsday editorial on February 24th 2023, Woes for Caricom leaders, “IN RECENT TIMES Caricom leaders have been experiencing first-hand how tenuous their grasp on power and status can be”, exemplifies Caribbean leadership need for greater awareness and collaboration. Leaders are now more vulnerable and at more risk, as authority keeps shifting in the present technological world.

Power is the force that drives people to engage in a direction for the benefit and survival of organizations. This force may be transmitted or move, depending on the authority of persons or groups with control of the resources, and resonance. How do you find and make sense of your role, in your context?

How is power lost or transferred in a networked world?
Who holds authority when power keeps shifting?
How can leaders maintain their authority and be comfortable with their vulnerability in an unstable environment?
What can leaders or organizations do to take the necessary risks required for collaboration and growth, when the trauma of past experiences is very present and the economic and social environment is unfamiliar?

Join us for this experiential learning event, at The University of the West Indies St Augustine Campus, Faculty of Social Sciences, where we discover as leaders, Vulnerabilities and Caribbean Leadership, with the complexity of Power Authority and Trust in this accelerated technological world.

I look forward to learning with you in our 6th Caribbean Group Relations Conference, delivered by The Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, UK, with Caribbean Group Relations Consulting Ltd.

WHAT IS LEARNING IN A GROUP RELATIONS CONFERENCE, AND WHAT MAKES IT SO POWERFUL?

A Group Relations Conference is an educational event which is based on learning through experience.

The conference design has been developed by the Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, since 1957. It provides a unique framework, within which senior and aspiring senior leaders, are able to learn about themselves, and the ways that groups and organisations affect them in taking up their roles. The strategic and structural dynamics of organizations can be studied and understood, and the knowledge can then be applied.

We create a temporary organisation that is set up to study its own behaviour as it happens. The temporary organisation is headed by a Director and the staff team that is appointed by the Director to work with the members of the organisation.

The staff do not manage the members, they work to provide consultancy in the form of working hypotheses about what may be happening in the conference events. These hypotheses are available for testing and review. In this way, we create a “Working Conference” where members are actively engaged in exploration, not sitting back being filled up with the opinions and findings of speakers, as they are in a traditional “conference”. As an active inquirer, members of the organisation will have the opportunity to explore their own assumptions, feelings and attitudes towards leadership in general, and the leadership of this Working Conference in particular.

There are issues of power, faith, belief, history, skin colour, geography, and class, that have left scars and challenges in people all over the world. How can these scars be harnessed as resources to transcend and expand our capacities to lead and follow? We believe that our conference promotes the integration of intellectual capacity and emotional intelligence so producing leaders who have creative visionary potential, enabling them to work more effectively at helping themselves and their employees, colleagues and clients to adapt to and take on future roles.

PRIMARY TASK

To study the exercise of leadership, authority, and the dynamics of power, trust, and vulnerabilities, through interpersonal, inter-group and institutional relations, that develop within the conference, as a temporary organization, in its wider context.
FOR WHOM?

This Conference is for anyone interested in developing a deeper understanding of managerial and leadership processes in organisations. The Conference provides a structured context of different systems and sub-systems in the “here and now”. It explores the dynamics of leadership, presence, authority, change, dissent, collaboration and transformation as they arise and unfold.

Participants may come from private and public organizations and includes Business Leaders, Consultants, Board Members, CEOs, Managers, Clinicians, Administrators, HR, Marketing, Production and Financial Professionals, Public Sector Managers, Local Authorities, Political, Diplomatic, NGOs, Religious, National Security, Educators, Activists, Researchers, Team Leaders, Medical Professionals.

Benefits to participants include:
- Identifying personal characteristics while exercising leadership and the effect on others
- Recognising how phenomena such as alliance and coalition formation affect the understanding of the group, by the group; and how it shapes motives and power bases
- Exploring competition, rivalry and what lies beyond immediate awareness that remain hidden in everyday interaction
- Locating and managing resistance to change in yourself and others
- Understanding how you influence or are influenced by others and the ensuing consequences - intended or unintended
- Developing skills and sharpening insights into how strategies take shape when groups function
- Developing a capacity for creativity and interpersonal relationships and building better team performers
- Inspiring strategic thinking and improving the capacity to lead in turbulent times
- Recognizing the barriers to communication

Benefits to organizations include:
- Increased capacity to lead and manage in a rapidly changing and complex Environment
- Enhanced leadership and communication culture, inspiring higher levels of responsibility, accountability, productivity and profitability
- Inspiring healthy interpersonal communication among the leadership and general staff
- Assisting department leaders to align their departments’ goals with the macro objectives of the organisation

How staff work in the Conference:
While staff and members are both participants, the conference accords them different roles. The staff members of the conference are allocated to each of the events in the role of consultants or in the role of collective management to work to the primary task of the event and to the task of the conference as a whole.

This they do through the offering of working hypotheses and other forms of interventions. They work by constantly trying to make sense of their own experiences and what is happening for members.

It is expected that staff hypotheses and interpretations will also create the possibility for individual members to reflect on what they represent to the group, what they are taking in from the group and what they are contributing to the group, particularly in terms of what may be happening unconsciously and in ways that are more hidden.

The Tavistock Institute of Human Relations is a not-for-profit, UK based organization which applies social science to contemporary issues and problems. It was formally founded as a registered charity in 1947 although its work started before the War, together with the Tavistock Clinic. The Institute is engaged with evaluation and action research, organizational development and change consultancy, executive coaching and professional development, all in service of supporting sustainable change and ongoing learning. Our staff works creatively with people involved in innovative activities, working across boundaries or in difficult situations. We combine research and analytical skills with practical help in devising solutions and in following through to implementation and are particularly known for our capacity to work with issues that are otherwise hidden, and sometimes unconscious. Our professional development opportunities include the Certificate in Dynamics at Board Level, the Certificate in Coaching for Leadership and Professional Development, the Practitioner Certificate in Consulting and Change (P3C) and a portfolio of Group Relations tailored events.
